Enable Battery Percent

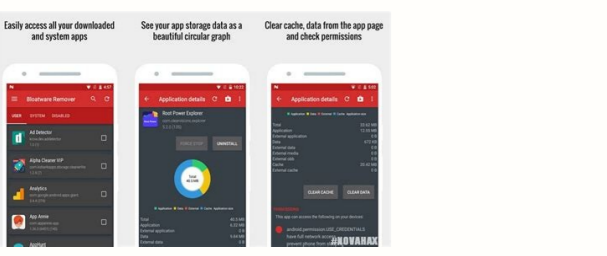

Please reboot your device after you change this setting. You can only see the battery percent text, if the battery is empty enough. (White text on white battery)

FAQ: Do I need a rooted device? No, should work on any 4.4+ device.)

Can you change the text-color? Sorry, this is impossible with a simple app like this one, because the color is hard-coded in SystemUI.apk. You need to decompile that apk, edit one line of source code and then recompile it. Actually, I don't plan to do this, because I don't like to change system-apps. Also, the OTA-Updates from google would fail after that and it would require root.

After removing the app the percentage is still there. That's because the app changes a system setting. The app does NOT display the battery itself!

I uninstalled the App. Now I want to disable the percent display.

Allow Chrome to install unknown apps by going to Settings > Apps > Menu > Special access > Install unknown apps. Install a file manager (such as Cx File Explorer or File Manager) so that you can find the APK file after you download it to your phone. Download an APK file and open it to install it. Alternatively, transfer the APK Installer from your computer using USB. If you want to use an app from outside of the Google Play Store, you can install the app's APK file. This article explains how to install APKs on Android 7 or later. Before you can download APK files using Chrome or any other browser, you must first allow unknown apps: Go to your device settings and tap Apps & Notifications (or Apps in older versions of Android). Tap the three dots in the upper-right corner. Tap Special access. Tap Install unknown apps. Tap Chrome (or whichever web browser you use) Move Allow from this source to the On position. Now that you've configured your phone to let you install unknown apps, you'll need a way to find the application file (APK file) on your phone so that you can run it. Android phones typically come with a file manager app you can use, but if you don't have one, search for one of the best Android file managers on Google Play. For example, you can download Cx File Explorer or get File Manager. The easiest way to install an APK file on your Android is to download the file using the default browser, Chrome. Find a website offering the Android app and tap the link to download the APK file. Accept any pop-ups, including "This type of file can harm your device." Only download APK files from reputable sources. A quick Google search can often let you know if an app (or company that makes the app) has a questionable reputation. If your phone's web browser doesn't give you the option to open the file after downloading, open your file explorer app, go to the Downloads folder on your device, then tap the APK file. Allow the app any required permissions it asks for. Then, at the bottom of the installer window, tap Install. Now you'll see the app available in your list of installed apps. If you don't have internet access on your phone, or for any other reason you can't use a browser to download the file, you can still install apps from your computer. Using your computer web browser, download the APK file just like described above. Once it's downloaded, connect to your Android phone and transfer the file. If you've never connected your Android to your computer, turn on USB debugging mode on Android. You can then plug your phone into your computer with a USB cable, and it'll mount the phone like it would a memory stick. Once your phone is connected to your computer, it shows up as another drive in your computer's File Explorer. Move the APK file you downloaded from the app website to the /sdcard/download folder on your phone. Once the file is transferred, use the file explorer app on your phone as described in the previous section to tap the APK file and install the app. If you don't have a USB cable, another solution is to install WiFi FTP Server from Google Play. Then, use a free FTP client software program on your computer (for example, download FileZilla), to transfer the APK file from your computer to the /sdcard/download folder on your phone. However, this is an advanced option and requires an understanding of how to use FTP files. If the APK installer isn't running when you tap it, there's an advanced solution that might work. You can install the APK file on your Android from your computer using a tool called Minimal ADB and Fastboot. Connect your phone via USB and enable USB Debugging. Download Minimal ADB and Fastboot on your computer, and then install it. Run the tool, and a command window opens. With your phone connected to your computer with the USB cable, type the command adb devices. If the tool detects your phone, an ID for the device appears under List of devices attached. Now you're ready to transfer the APK file. Using Windows File Explorer, find the downloaded APK file on your computer. Right-click the file and select Copy. Using Windows File Explorer, navigate to the Minimal ADB and Fastboot folder (typically c:\Program Files (x86)\Minimal ADB and Fastboot). Paste the APK file into that folder. Rename the APK file to something short so that it's easy to type as a command. Back in the same command window you had open before, type the command adb install app_name (replace with the name of your APK file). When you see the word Success, the app is installed on your phone. An APK (Android Package Kit) is a type of file that installs an application for Android. It's just like an executable (EXE) file for Windows or a package installer (PKG) for Mac. If you've ever installed an Android application from the Google Play store, then you've used an APK file without realizing it. When you tap the Install button, Google Play automates the process of transferring the APK file to your phone and running it for you. If the Android app you want to install isn't available on Google Play, you can download the APK file from the web and install it manually. There are many websites where you can find non-Google Play apps to install. For example, visit Apk Pure, Reddit's Apk Directory, or APKMirror. FAQ Can APK files harm your Android? Possibly. Any file you download online can contain a virus, which is why it's important to only download APKs from safe sources. Can I delete APK files on my Android? Yes. APK files are only used to install apps, so once the app is installed, you can delete the APK. What is ConfigAPK on Android? ConfigAPK comes preloaded on Android devices. It's used to run APK files and install apps. Thanks for letting us know! Get the Latest Tech News Delivered Every Day Subscribe Tell us why! The NSW government is calling on developers to be part of an event designed to create apps that will help people with impairment or disability easily use the public transport system. People with vision or hearing impairments or mobility, physical or cognitive disabilities have said tailored apps could make it easier for them to use public transport, said a Transport for NSW spokesperson. Selected app proposals will receive seed funding, ongoing access to transport data, as well as a promotion of their product by Transport for NSW. "Planning a journey, knowing that our stop is nearby, knowing which side of the train to alight from are tasks that most of us take for granted," the spokesperson said. "But for customers with disability or impairment, it can be a huge case of anxiety. "Accessibility apps alongside way-finding and on-board and station announcements will also reduce safety risks for people with disability by providing improved navigational tools and reliable transport information." The project also contributes to the NSW government's Disability Action Plan, which ensures compliance with the Disability Discrimination Act to provide better support and services for commuters with a disability. You can easily find all the apps that are sharing your location on an Android phone, and disable access so they won't be able to broadcast your location anymore. Here's what you need to know, and what you can do to ensure apps don't use location data in the background.Products used in this guideAll the basics: OnePlus 7T (opens in new tab) ($499 at OnePlus)How to find apps that are sharing your location on AndroidApps like Google Maps, Uber, and Lyft won't work without location access, but you can enable access just before you use these services. Then there are services like Instagram and Facebook that access your location to provide details of nearby points of interest. If you need to provide an app with your location details, you can always enable it just before you use a service like Uber or Lyft. Here's how you can see all the apps that are sharing your location:Open Settings from the home screen.Scroll down to the bottom of the page.Select Location.Source: Android Central (Image credit: Source: Android Central)You'll see apps that accessed your location details. Tap App permission to see a list of all apps that can access your location.Allowed all the time: These apps will be able to access your location info in the background. There's no need to have this enabled for any app.Allowed only while in use: If you must provide location access to an app, this is the setting you should use. This permission allows apps to access location details only when they're running.Deny: These apps will not be able to access your location details.Select an app to change its permissions.Tap Deny to cut off the app's ability to access your location details.Source: Android Central (Image credit: Source: Android Central)For services like Uber or Maps, you will have to enable the location permission before you can use them. If you need to do that, it's as easy as following the steps outlined above and toggling the permission from Deny to Allowed only while in use.If you don't want to share your location at all, you can turn it off entirely. Doing so is about as straightforward as it gets:Open Settings from the home screen.Scroll down to the bottom of the page.Select Location.Toggle Location to Off.Source: Android Central (Image credit: Source: Android Central)Once you disable the location permission, apps will no longer be able to get location information. If you're worried about errant apps sharing your location details, this is the best way to disable access.
